Boral is a large and diverse Australian company that produces products for the construction and building industry by value adding to basic raw materials. The company operates in all states of Australia as well as in Asia, the Middle East and the USA.

Boral employs over 6,000 people in Australia and operates from 402 sites around the country. Boral recognises that the training received by members of the defence force is second to none and that the skills defence members have is widely valued in our business. The training in leadership provided by Defence mirrors what Boral wants in its front line and more senior leaders. Defence members gain a lot from the uniqueness of their experiences and the conditions that they operate in. These skills and experiences translate well to the type of businesses that Boral has and we see value in recruiting those with experience in the armed services.

Boral provides a supportive environment to those who are transitioning, and has established a Defence Alumni network to enable former members, and those who continue to serve, access to a network for mentoring, development, and comradeship. Boral also supports our employees who choose to serve in the Reserves.

The team we have here today have all had some exposure or experience in or with defence, and can assist you with information on jobs with Boral. We can also help you in translating your defence experience and how that may be applicable to the numerous roles we have in Boral.
